Balloon Over and Under

- c. For this ice breaker you will need two blown up balloons. Divide the students into equal teams. Each team must stand in a single file line with about a foot between each of them. Hand an inflated balloon to the first person on each time. When you say "GO," they must pass the balloon backwards over their heads to the team members behind them. That person then passes it under -- through their legs -- and they alternate over & under. Whichever team to get the balloon to the last person in line first wins

VI. Knobby Knees II

- VII. This is a relay ice breaker, and you will only need a balloon (previously blown up) for each team. Simply have them clamp the balloon between their knees, run/waddle to the finish line, and race back to tag the next person on their team. First team finished wins. Warning: Use discernment if you have girls wearing tight, straight skirts!
- VIII. Musical Chairs or Musical Balls – have children pass around ball in a circle and whoever gets ball when music stops has to get out.
